which brought up the ed most heartily of all.

She hung on gamely in the lead, a full length out.
Campfire crept up slowly luch by linch. His minute was at Madeira's flank; then at Troyle's strrup. Ten or strides more and the Wilson coil was racing us even terms with the pacemaker. Three-stateenths from home Modera, connected, quit the strongle and dropped quickly to the rear. But hare a new monace arose. Robitson, the heat leekey from the Canadian sircuit, had been imported to ride for Mr Whitney. Rickety had been introduced to his horsemanship. From a more favorable inside position Robinson got the colt away well. Once, and will after the start, he was an far back as seventh, but at that time a blanket's length would have covered the well bunched field of ten.

Wonderful Ride.

Wonderful Ride.

New Robinson begun a ride that will love long in the memory of those who witnessed it. He picked his mount up into his lap, it seemed, and carried him forward. One by one he smothered him forward. One hy one he smothered him had a long to the fallering Madeirs as though she serve atanding still. A furious from him himse Rebitsson had crept from Camptire's eruppee to his saddle; from his addle to even terms. For a couple of strates is seemed that Rickety had forged ahead by scant inches.

The stands were mad by new. A morning of Rickety. Soft spiken as a prayer, marked the beginning of Robinson's masterful drive. Expensed almost with sach of Rickety's courage our bounds it swelled into a thundering bounds it swelled into a thundering house with the old gold and green.

Gate.

The 50-fosters of the New York Yacht Club had the most interesting scrap of the day. After and Bansas made up the division. They were sent around a course that was to have given them a reach from Sea Gate to Bensonhurst, a beat to Fort Hamtilon, a broad reach to Craven Shoals and another reach house. Unfortunately the wind hauled soon after the start, and the course was turned into a merry go-round. After won by 34 seconds.
